Shows to See During Mumbai Gallery Weekend 2024

BY THE EDITORS

Mumbai Gallery Weekend (MGW) is set to run from January 11–14 with more than 34 participating venues across the Indian financial capital. In addition to exhibitions in the city's leading galleries, the Mumbai Gallery Association has planned a series of public events across the four days including artist talks, walking tours, and panel discussions. Here's a look at some of the shows to see during MGW 2024.

Jan 6–17 Sudarshan Shetty: One Life Many IFBE Space

Sudarshan Shetty's latest film work One Life Many (2022) restages a mythological tale from medieval India in which a sage is transformed into a woman and experiences life as a mother and wife. The 30-minute film is accompanied by Shetty's sculptural installations that pair real-world objects with their facsimiles through forms of material transformation, suggesting the coexistence of multiple intertwined versions of reality.

Jan 11–Feb 17 Muhanned Cader: Island in the Sky Jhaveri Contemporary

Born in Colombo, Sri Lanka, in 1966, Oxford-based Muhanned Cader makes small vibrant, fragmented paintings depicting landscapes inspired by his travels and serendipitous encounters. Using layers of charcoal, acrylics, and jewel-toned oil paints, Cader collages natural scenes into majestic vignettes.

Jan 11–Feb 10 Anant Joshi: Raised Eyebrow Chemould Prescott Road

After nine years, Mumbai-based Anant Joshi returns to Chemould Prescott Road for a major solo exhibition. Presenting mixed-media works consisting of sculpture, painting, and light boxes, Joshi evokes political satire through his unique visual language, which often incorporates child-like shapes and subjects.

Ashwini Bhat: Her Nature Project 88

Hailing from a background in literature and classical Indian dance, transdisciplinary artist Ashwini Bhat transcends the confines of Western art-making. The solo show "Her Nature" features the artist's biomorphic sculptures, installations, and videos, questioning the premise of human individuality whilst evoking ecological interdependence.

Sohrab Hura: Ghosts in My Sleep Experimenter Colaba

Primarily known as a photographer, Sohrab Hura presents recent gouache paintings and color pastels in "Ghosts in My Sleep." Across dozens of small paintings and drawings, Hura depicts moments of familial intimacy and memories of childhood in expressionistic colors. At times humorous and at others tender, Hura reflects on the passing of time in these snapshot-like, hand-rendered images.
